Identity. The term "Chinese Filipino" may or may not be hyphenated. The website of the organization Kaisa para sa Kaunlaran (Unity for Progress) omits the hyphen, adding that the former is the adjective where the latter is the noun, depending on whichever perspective logic one understands that identity. The Chicago Manual of Style and the APA, among others, also recommend dropping the hyphen.

So, say your Microphone is on your bottom row and you gain a landmark that isn't all that useful at that moment to place in your capital city. Instead, you could place it on the Microphone and instantly upgrade it to the middle row. Later, when you gain a normal "upgrade" benefit, you can upgrade the Microphone to your top row because it meets the prerequisite of having a landmark on it.
